How would you like your castle?
Concentric, square, restored, dilapidated, 10th century, 18th century... And would you like coffee with that? Then we recommend Cardiff Castle. It's an impressive example of a fortress, first established by the Normans in 1106. And it's a 5 minute walk from the Queen Street Starbucks – a far rarer example of a coffee shop, first established by the Americans in 2001. Enjoy your castle, and have a nice day.
